Meandering
Along the Main Stem
By WASH FAYETTE

Somehow, it's always hard for me to picture the boys I have known around here in the thick of a bloody battle . . . it's all so very far away and hazy that it seems more like a horrible dream . . . and I come up with a start when the realization finally does jolt me. I think it is like that, more or less, with everyone.

When the reports come in of so many of the boys known so well being wounded . . . or killed . . . in actual fighting, it seems sort of vague . . . yet I know it's true. I try to picture them, sloshing through mud and snow, or through jungle swamps, but I can only see them overcoated and overshoe walking along solid sidewalks. I try to picture them in savage fights for life, and can see them only laughing boisterously and loving life.

But, behind it all there's a deep pride in those American boys . . . we all think there are no others like them in the world . . . and there aren't . . . of that, we're all definitely conscious because we have the very concrete evidence of what they have done.

Ralph Penn, a veteran of the last war, was just showing me a letter he got from Major Frank Hamilton. When Frank, just out of high school, left here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hamilton, he was a frail, spindling boy. But he had lots of grit and determination. In Columbus, where his family moved, he studied medicine and eventually came to be somewhat of a surgeon. He married one of Governor George White's daughters in a ceremony in the Methodist Church here and went back to continue the practice of his profession. Then came the war. Dr. Hamilton entered the service. He was sent to England where he treated air war casualties for about a year. He went across the channel when the Allies invaded Europe. His letter tells something of what he has been doing.

Attached to a medical unit, he first operated on the Normandy beach in a field hospital, then went through the battle of St. Lo. He followed close behind the doughboys in their dash across France. With the opening of the Dutch Corridor, his surgical team was sent in by air and there, he wrote, "it was not enough for anyone's fancy." Next came Aachen. Then the rotation plan took him back to a general hospital where he now is.

To say Americans are equal to any emergency, is putting it much too mildly. For Maj. Hamilton wrote: "It seems one must serve six months in the combat zone before he is classed as experienced and eligible for rotation. That may be true, but after being strafed while operating, one feels he has experience enough to last a long time."

The stuff of which those Americans are made becomes apparent when put to test. When you think of the fine equipment, the lighting and the quiet of modern hospitals, it's difficult to imagine how surgeons could operate under such front line conditions . . . but they do . . . and that's why so many American boys are alive, though some are still in hospitals, today.

It must be comforting to the families of fighting men to know that medical and surgical units are right with them at the front . . . that's why I asked Ralph to let me quote from his letter from Maj. Hamilton. Yes, American fighting men are equal to any occasion, hard as that may be to realize . . . but so are the doctors who go right in with them to make sure they get the very best of care.

MIDDLETOWN OFFICER
ONE OF FREED MEN

MIDDLETOWN, Feb. 15.—(P)—Mrs. Frances P. Moore of Middletown today was overjoyed by the "grand news" that her husband, Lt. Charles W. Moore, was one of five American soldiers liberated from German prison camps by the Russian army.

"Hope of his safety was one of those things I hardly dared think of," she said. "It's grand news." In a broadcast over Lublin radio yesterday Lieutenant Moore asked that his wife be told "I am safe and well."

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(P)—A review of the death sentence imposed on William Curtis Colebaugh and Erich Gimpel will follow as part of established procedure in the spy trial just concluded by a seven-man military commission.

The commission found the two men guilty yesterday and sentenced them to death by hanging. Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the Second Service Command, will review the findings and send them to Washington for inspection by a board of review. Then the commission's decision will go to President Roosevelt.

The commission, holding hearings since February 6, on historic Governors Island, deliberated less than three hours. The men were adjudged guilty (Please Turn to Page Ten)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—(P)—Japanese atrocities in Manila were bitterly denounced today by Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commanding the 37th U. S. Division engaged in the Battle of the Philippine capital.

Army photographers are documenting some of the atrocity incidents, said John Adams, CBS correspondent in a broadcast to his interview with Beightler.

Suicidal Forces While Frontal Assault on Corregidor
Looms With Nip Report That Minesweepers
Are Clearing Bay's Entrance

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
By The Associated Press
An American invasion armada is apparently preparing to dash into Manila Bay between the Japanese guns on Corregidor and Bataan for a sea-borne assault on the Philippines capital, Tokyo radio reported today.

Explosions and flames still erupted in southern Manila where doomed Japanese soldiers were reported murdering civilians. Atrocious reports said the Japanese had bayoneted babies and civilians whose hands had been tied.

Unconfirmed Japanese Domei News Agency dispatches said 20 U. S. minesweepers attempted to clear an entrance to Manila Bay Tuesday under cover of a heavy naval and air bombardment.

Domei said Corregidor's remaining big guns fought a day-long duel with batteries of 11 U. S.

JAPAN NOT SAFE
WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(P)—Superfortresses rained fire and explosives anew on Japan's home island today, and War Secretary Stimson said Nippon's "diminishing area of conquest offers no secure haven of safety anywhere."

warships, sank one minesweeper and prevented the remainder from sweeping the narrow channel between Corregidor and Bataan. "Some enemy transports, apparently carrying invasion forces," were reported waiting for mines to be cleared from the waterway.

Superior American forces are being forced to fight for each house, each street corner, and each shattered remnant of a building in Manila Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, "we are gradually compressing the circle on the trapped enemy garrison" in the thick-walled Intramuros and adjacent waterfront section.

The doomed Japanese, holed up primarily in the Intramuros, where walls are 40 feet thick at the base, were weakened but still fighting. Japanese artillery fire fell off markedly after American guns poured a deadly barrage into the sector Tuesday and Wednesday.

Troops of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Division, bearing the brunt of the house-by-house onslaught, yesterday reached the University of the Philippines campus, a half mile from the high commissioner's residence on the bay front.

The Japanese still held the General Hospital nearby, and the American position was untenable. Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson said the enemy was confined to an area about 5,000 yards by 2,000 yards.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his communique today the 37th Infantry, First Cavalry and 11th Airborne divisions were "gradually compressing the circle on the trapped enemy garrison."

ARMY OFFICER KILLS BRIDE AND BURIES HER IN FOXHOLE;
CONFESSES AS SUICIDE FAILS

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 15.—(P)—His throat and wrists swathed in bandages, 29-year-old Lt. S. C. Epes was under guard today in a post hospital after, Sheriff Alex Heise said, he admitted killing his young school teacher wife in a foxhole.

Army authorities at nearby Ft. Jackson said the scion of a wealthy Virginia family attempted to kill himself last Monday by slashing himself with a razor blade. The body of Mrs. Mary Lee Epes, 26, was exhumed yesterday. Heise said she apparently had been drugged, and the state identification bureau announced after an autopsy that a blow on the head was the cause of death.

The pretty, auburn-haired school teacher had left her job in Jacksonville, Fla., during the Christmas holidays and had come here to be with her husband while he awaited transfer overseas.

Admitting he took his wife's body in the trunk of his car to the foxhole, the sheriff said, the lieutenant, whose father is head of the Epes-Fitzgerald Paper

Italy Wants Armistice Terms
Eased and France Wants
More Relief

(By the Associated Press)
Some relaxation of Italian armistice terms and a possible inquiry by President Roosevelt into arrangements for the relief of French civilians were indicated today by continental dispatches.

The new pronouncement was believed in Rome to keep Italy still in the category of a conquered country. Some Italian officials are said to have advocated full elimination of the armistice agreement on the ground it constitutes a psychological impediment to full Italian collaboration in fighting the Nazis.

The Rome dispatch said it was believed all secret clauses of the surrender document, signed in

ROOSEVELT MISSING
ROME, Feb. 15.—(P)—The American Embassy and Allied headquarters said tonight they had no information that President Roosevelt was in Italy. They were commenting on Paris reports that the President was expected to visit this country.

September, 1943, by Marshal Pietro Badoglio, would remain known only to a few.

Why these clauses never have been made public remains a mystery.

France Not Satisfied
The best available information in Paris was that Mr. Roosevelt had not yet reached France, although a Paris broadcast said the president, on his way back from the Crimean conference, was reported by the Marseille press "to have made a short stay" at Marseille, French Mediterranean port. Immobilized Nazis Kept Out of

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Feb. 15.—(P)—Gen. George C. Marshall, making a surprise tour of the Italian front, told Fifth Army soldiers yesterday that they have immobilized large German forces in Italy, preventing the Nazi troops from bolstering sagging lines on the eastern and western fronts.

It is estimated the Nazis have 27 divisions in Italy. Marshall's statement was an obvious tonic to the Fifth Army troops, many of whom have been overseas battling the Axis more than three years.

The U. S. Army chief of staff made an unexpected, three-day tour of the Fifth's sector on his way home from the Crimean conference. He wore overseas for the first time his new five-star insignia as a general of the Army.

Farm Bureau Feud
Over Basic Policies
Breaks into Open

Four Veteran Executives Resign as Internal Differences
Over Farm-labor Relations and Consumer
Cooperatives Reach Stalemate

COLUMBUS, Feb. 15.—(P)—Differing opinions whether the farmers' interests are similar to those of organized labor, plus a dispute over consumer cooperatives, left the Ohio Farm Bureau without the services of four 20-year-veteran executives today.

The quartet, who resigned, are L. A. Taylor, assistant general manager and secretary of the insurance companies; L. J. Bennett, assistant secretary of the insurance companies and head of the sales department; R. W. Richert, superintendent of insurance agents, and Eugene L. Hensel, special counsel and supervisor of the legal department.

Hensel said he could not conscientiously serve the farm clients while feeling the organization was working against their best interests. He added:

"The farmers' objectives are the antithesis of unions and consumer cooperatives. The farmer eventually would be faced with disadvantages."

Murray D. Lincoln, the Bureau's general manager acknowledged the resignations, but contended the interests of the farmers and organized labor were the same. Supported by the bureau's 26 directors, Lincoln said, "the farmer must work with all economic groups to solve the serious marketing problem."

"Eric Johnson (president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce) and others have been stressing the need of working together to avert a postwar depression."

Hensel said he had nothing against unions or consumer cooperatives. "The cooperatives want low prices and the best possible goods," he said. "The farm cooperatives, working without subsidies from the government, are purchasing at market prices and selling at the highest possible price. There is bound to be friction."

Lincoln, describing the postwar bureau plans as still in the "discussion" stage, said an investigation was underway to ready a concrete program for the farmers at the war's end.

Lincoln announced the committee consisted of Robert Peelle of Clinton County, B. S. Van Gorden of Hamilton, James Tootle of Chillicothe, Everett Rittenour of Pike County and John Hodson of Williams County, state director of agriculture.

J. S. Keltner of Columbus, treasurer, has been named acting assistant general manager. Bowman Doss of Columbus has replaced Bennett and George Hough of Westerville will succeed Richert. Hensel's post has not been filled.

Ohio House To Pass on Bill
Upping Retirement Age

COLUMBUS, Feb. 15.—(P)—A bill designed to help relieve the manpower shortage in state and local governments had the approval of the senate today. It would postpone for two years the effective date of legislation requiring members of the public employees retirement system to retire at 70.

Author of the bill, Sen. E. E. Addison (R-Columbus), estimated the measure would help retain more than 900 government employees. The measure, approved by the senate yesterday now goes to the house.

POLISH CORRIDOR TAKEN
LONDON, Feb. 15.—(P)—Col-nice in the old Polish Corridor has been captured, Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day.

Ukrainian Army was reported by a German military spokesman to have stormed across the Neisse River, reaching military highways on both sides of Forst, 65 miles from Berlin.

The new assaults by 1,100 heavies and 450 fighters brought to 11,000 the number of planes which have linked the east and west battlefronts under a blanket of explosives. New Allied formations were reported by the Germans sweeping in from Holland, and over Austria from Italy.

Tactical aircraft also had a great field day under perfect weather for low-level flying, smashing at Nazi road and rail movements ahead of the Canadian First Army offensive on the Western Front.

The RAF during the night sent 1,300 planes against Germany, the bulk of them hitting the eastern front rail center of Chemnitz, 35 miles southwest of burning Dresden, another main target of the Russian drive, as the coordinated strategy of the Big Three unfolded. British heavy bombers also hit a synthetic oil plant at Rositz, south of Leipzig, and Mosquitos blasted refugee-packed Berlin.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army, in a 22-mile advance, reached the heavily fortified Neisse River and were fighting for bridgeheads, a Moscow dispatch said, only 53 miles from Dresden, hit yesterday by 450 Fortresses and the night before by 800 RAF heavies.

PROPOSAL STUDIED

Cleveland Area Would Be Affected for 6 Months

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15.—(P)—The labor advisory committee of the district Office of Price Administration has recommended rationing of poultry in the 19-county Cleveland district from Thanksgiving to Easter, the period when it is most scarce.

OPA officials said the recommendation would be submitted to the National OPA office in Washington unless some solution of the present shortage is evolved by city officials and poultry dealers in the near future. The Cleveland district includes the counties of Ashland, Ashtabula, Carroll, Columbiana, Cuyahoga, Erie, Geauga, Huron, Lake, Lorain, Mahoning, Medina, Portage, Richland, Stark, Summit, Trumbull, Tuscarawas and Wayne.

LABOR POLICIES OUTLINED IN 12 POINT PROGRAM

L. W. Lohrey Speaks at Meet Of Foremen's Club Here Wednesday

Boiling down the essence of good labor relations to a dozen items, L. W. Lohrey, manager of personnel at Delco Products in Dayton was the feature speaker at the Foremen's Club dinner meeting in the American Legion Hall Wednesday night.

The foundation of sound labor relations as Lohrey outlined them are:

1. The applicant should be interviewed by the personnel department and foreman.
2. Reception by the employment department must be favorable.
3. Proper selection of employees.
4. Proper placement of employees.
5. Wages must be based on job classification and labor grades with set wage rate.
6. Separations, promotions and discharge must be handled truthfully and impartially.
7. Progress records on each employee showing good traits as well as bad.
8. Definite rules regarding conduct and penalty must be clear to employees and enforced impartially.
9. Should be a definite grievance procedure and all cases disposed of speedily.
10. Should be a definite training program for supervisors to keep them growing.
11. Serene self-satisfaction should by all means be avoided.
12. Supervisors should be receptive to new ideas in order to grow with the changing times.

Summing up his statements, Lohrey said sound labor relations were of paramount importance in securing a smooth running organization or department.

Films showed Wednesday night pictured the right and wrong approach to supervising workers as a graphic illustration of Lohrey's speech. War Department-released films gave a vivid picture of what fighting men endure and what it means when supplies are late in arriving.

ROBERT BROWNING WOUNDED IN ACTION

Family Believes He Doesn't Know Yet of Mother's Death

Pvt. Robert Browning, 24 year old son of John N. Browning, of the Columbus Road, was slightly wounded in action in Belgium January 30 a War Department telegram informed his father Thursday.

The telegram was addressed to Pvt. Browning's mother, who died on Christmas Day. His family believes Pvt. Browning does not know yet of his mother's death since they think he left for overseas duty around the holiday season. His first letter from France was dated December 28. None have mentioned Mrs. Browning's death, it was said.

No details as to the extent of his wound were given in the telegram but the family was assured specific information and Pvt. Browning's hospital address would follow.

Pvt. Browning has been in service since last May and is with a tank battalion overseas, his family believes. His sister, Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning, is a music teacher in the city school system.

A letter dated January 31, the day after he was reported wounded, arrived here before the telegram, it was said. In that letter, Pvt. Browning said he had "plenty of time now" but did not say why.

Pvt. Browning was a farmer before entering the service and is a graduate of Bloomingburg High School.

BOMBERS BLASTING REICH AS ALLIES CLOSE IN ON BOTH SIDES ON GROUND

Rhine opposite Emmerich today and swung slowly along the northern end of the Rhine valley in a drive behind the Siegfried line threatening to outflank the Ruhr munitions industries.

The 20-mile Kleve front was the only active one in the west. On its south flank, British Empire troops crushed a series of violent German counterattacks and pressed close to the key defense bastions of Goch and Calcar.

More and more Germans were drawn into the semi-aquatic battle which was turning the German flank in the north.

Barrages from hundreds upon hundreds of Field Marshal Montgomery's big guns and huge fleets of Allied planes paralyzed every German attempt to regain ground and exacted terrible casualties. The threat was so real to the Ruhr and Rhineland, the heart of the German war effort, that Field Marshal Walther von Model mustered every reserve he could scrape for his defending army group.

The Rhine was reached at Hurdendich. The river is normally 3,270 feet wide but breaches in dykes in the lowlands have made the Rhine even more imposing.

Marshal Konev's cavalry neared the frontiers of Saxony in sight of the towering beacons of smoke from Allied raids.

Konev's advance units, pushing west and northwest, struck along roads leading through forests east of Goerlitz, Dresden and Cottbus, 43 miles southwest of Frankfurt.

SUPREME COURT IS CONSIDERING COLLETT CASE

Appeal Argued by Attorneys And Court Takes Case Under Advisement

After hearing arguments on motions to certify the record, made by the defense attorneys, and to dismiss the appeal, filed by State's attorneys, the Ohio Supreme Court Thursday took the James W. Collett murder case under advisement today, and an early decision was anticipated.

Collett, sentenced to die for the murder of the Elmer McCoy family Thanksgiving eve, 1943, had lost his appeal to the Fayette County Court of Appeals, and his attorneys then carried it to the Ohio Supreme Court, which now has it under advisement.

Allen Smith and Charles Kirk of Wilmington, Collett's attorneys, said the defendant appealed because the trial court overruled a motion for the request of a bill of particulars and a motion for postponement of trial. The defense attorneys also contended the court erred by permitting admission of a confession, which they claimed was obtained under duress, after a lie detector test at Toledo.

Collett's attorneys also claimed he was bound over to the grand jury without waiving examination.

John B. Hill, Fayette County prosecutor, told the court the defendant "isn't entitled to a blueprint of what the state is going to provide as evidence."

Denying claims that Collett's purported confession was obtained under duress, Hill said the total questioning of Collett was "four and one-half hours." "He was in the custody of a man he had known for years," Hill added.

Collett's attorneys also contended the court of appeals erred in refusing to reverse the judgement of the common pleas court.

His northern flank was about to merge with Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's troops west of the Oder. The imminence of such a juncture brought frantic German resistance in the Gruenberg sector.

A force on Konev's northern flank threatened to outflank Gruenberg.

Zhukov's First White Russian Army has completed conquest of the Fortress of Schneidemuehl, 15 miles beyond Soviet lines in German Pomerania, killing 7,000 Germans and capturing 5,000 after two weeks of siege. Front dispatches said a great battle raged due east of Berlin.

Berlin said the northern prong of Konev's drive reached Sommerfeld, 71 miles southeast of Berlin.

The Greek theater is the ancestor of all modern European theaters.

FREED NATIONS BECOME GROWING PROBLEM FOR BIG THREE WITH PLEAS

President Roosevelt was expected to visit Italy on his return trip and arrangements to receive him have been made both by the French government and by Allied headquarters, said a news story passed by Allied censorship from Paris last night.

This dispatch, by AP Bureau Chief Edward Kennedy, said "one of the war's greatest scandals may come out" in connection with French relief if the president visited France. He said high-ranking administration officials and Army officers had been summoned to be prepared to meet the president.

More Relief Wanted

"Judging from this," it was added, "the president may intend to inquire into the problem of the relief of the French civilian population. It is reported that White House directives for more of this relief have not been fulfilled."

In Washington, OWI Director Elmer Davis said he assumed the reference was to the failure to ship as much civilian supplies into France as planned before the invasion.

Socialist Premier Tomasz Arciszewski of the Polish government in exile accused the Big Three of dictatorial acts, and declared Poland would "never surrender to slavery and the new partition done by her allies."

TOLAN BROWN NEW CHAIRMAN

Succeeds Winegardner Here On Executive Board

Tolan E. Brown, prominent in Democratic circles in Fayette County for many years, has been elected chairman of the Fayette County Democratic Committee, to succeed R. M. Winegardner, energetic chairman who recently resigned to accept an important position with the American Red Cross.

At the same meeting of the committee, held Tuesday night, Frank Grubbs was elected vice-chairman of the committee.

Brown was former county auditor for a number of years, and also relief director of the county for sometime, later heading the War Price and Rationing Board here until failing health made it necessary to resign.

He is now in the office of the Try-Me Taxi Co. here.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The European War is sweeping across the screen with such speed that there's only a flash of time in which to examine individual operations, but we shouldn't overlook the significance of the Russian capture of Budapest, for its potentialities are tremendous.

The fall of this great city—most important communications center in all southeastern Europe—goes far towards opening the Danubian route into Austria. It means that the Muscovite forces in Hungary have just about smashed the lock on Hitler's back door—a fact which should be considered in connection with the thrust towards Austria via Czechoslovakia by the southern wing of the Red forces assaulting Germany. These two Red operations complement each other.

Now that's a big item. Naturally our attention is centered on the drive for Berlin—on the Russian offensive to take Dresden and cut Germany in two—on yesterday's furious assault of 8,000 Allied warplanes under which Dresden and other key cities shuddered—on the Allied attack against the Rhenish defenses through the terrible floods and mud.

But after Berlin has fallen—after the Reich has been slashed in two and the Hitlerites have been kicked out of the northern half—what then? Well, if the Nazis still are capable of carrying on their fanatical suicidal war, we shall see them make a stand in Bavaria and Austria, providing their present plans materialize. Then they will have the Alps at their backs, and in order to shorten the war it will be vastly important for us to be able to get at them through Austria as well as by attacking from the north.

The fall of Budapest, after one of the most fiercely fought and bloody battles of the entire war, releases two strong Red Armies and while there has been no announcement as to their further disposition, observers generally have assumed that Budapest provided a terrible interlude in an offensive against Austria. Marshal Stalin himself, in announcing the capture, referred to the capital as a strategically important German defense center "on the road to Vienna." So he apparently has his eye on Austria.

Incidentally, Stalin also disclosed a highly interesting item, in reporting that the Nazi commandant at Budapest, Col. Gen. Pfeffer-Wildenbruch, and his staff were captured in a sewer. Stalin also took pains to repeat that when the Russians sent envoys to the German command in Budapest to demand surrender at the outset of the siege, the Hitlerites killed the envoys. The Marshal didn't name Pfeffer-Wildenbruch, but the latter may well have been the man.

If so, I'd hate to be in the colonel general's battle-boots, and one doubts if he himself will be in them long. I'm reminded of a day in 1938 when I ride with the procession when Hitler made his triumphant entry into Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland, after Munich. Pfeffer-Wildenbruch was in command of the Nazi troops which took over the job of policing this new territory, and the German element of the Sudeten population threw flowers into his car—among many others—as he motored over the country highway. There won't be any roses for him this time.

If the Russians choose to continue their offensive to Austria, the next big city to come under fire may be ancient Bratislava,

PAPER CAMPAIGN FOR BOY SCOUTS MAY BE SNAGGED

Schools' Drive Conflict To Be Worked Out by Officials

Boy Scouts here today were assigned the mission of helping to collect pounds of waste paper in a nation-wide March-April drive endorsed by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Boy Scout paper drive here was tentatively scheduled for March alone but with the city schools efficient collections going on constantly, the Scout drive may hit a snag.

Scout and school officials probably will get together soon to work out a cooperative plan for the two months in question, it was explained. The Scouts will use their money to go to camp this summer.

The army's assistant chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Russell L. Maxwell, told Scouts and Cubs in behalf of General Eisenhower that waste paper "is needed now as never before to be converted to containers to carry munitions, food and military supplies."

Maxwell addressed opening ceremonies of the drive.

Each Scout or Cub who collects 1,000 pounds of paper will be awarded a medal bearing Eisenhower's likeness, and each troop or Cub pack averaging 1,000 pounds a member will receive a shell case—a paper container returned from European battlefield—carrying a citation signed by the Allied commander.

The drive, officially named the General Eisenhower-Boy Scout Waste Paper Program, was arranged by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, which said it is the only civilian program "sponsored personally" by General Eisenhower.

Dr. Elbert K. Fretwell, chief Scout executive accepted the assignment on behalf of 1,500,000 Scouts and Cubs.

THUNDERSHOWER FIRST OF SEASON

Light Electrical Storms in County Thursday

The first thundershower of the season occurred Thursday around 9:30 A. M., and attracted considerable attention.

In this city the electrical disturbance was light and the accompanying shower was light. Other thundershowers occurred during the day, at various points in the county.

According to an old belief, the first thunder arouses the sleeping turtles and frogs and they come forth from their hibernating places to take their chance with the cold weather the remainder of the season.

Czechoslovakia's chief Danubian port. This fine old town stands at the juncture of the frontiers of Czechoslovakia, Austria and Hungary. It is of great strategic importance for it's situated at the base of a spur of the Carpathians on the bank of the Danube where the river passes through the Theben gorge. If the Red Armies choose to essay the Bratislava Pass they'll have to knock out this ten century old city where Hungarian kings were crowned.

In winter, when cows eat dry feed, butter may be almost white before color is added.

Pvt. Charles M. Smith With Medics in France

Pvt. Charles M. Smith, 420 East Paint Street, is one of the staff members of the 236th General Hospital, which is one of the youngest general hospitals in the U. S. Army's Medical Department now serving with the American troops. Commanded by Lt. Col. Raymond J. Borer, Toledo, the 238th is headed by one of the youngest officers to command an Army general hospital.

The 238th was activated Oct. 10, 1944, at Camp Barkley, Texas. It immediately began training a part of the officers, nurses and enlisted men in hospital work. When, on Dec. 15, the hospital landed in France, the enlisted personnel had completed its basic and technical training. Now, under the guidance of a veteran general hospital, all the personnel is learning what makes a well-organized hospital "tick."

"We're proudest of the way we solved some terrific problems that faced us in supply and personnel," Col. Borer said. "Before we left the United States we had solved 97 percent of our supply problems and 100 percent of our personnel problems. And we've been rated as excellent and superior everywhere we've been so far."

"We're a cosmopolitan group, both enlisted and commissioned personnel. We're from all 48 states. Then enlisted men are from every walk of life and many of them are highly skilled and well trained."

Veteran Combat Pilot Injured in Car Crash

Capt. Paul Blake, who during 10 months overseas as B-24 bomber pilot received not a scratch, today is in Kennedy General Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., being treated for a serious skull fracture sustained in an automobile accident.

When his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blake, 735 Leesburg Avenue, left for Memphis Wednesday night, they knew only the sketchiest details, gleaned from two telegrams and a telephone conversation with the hospital.

They did learn their son had undergone an operation Wednesday afternoon and that his condition was termed serious by Army doctors. Where or how the accident happened, they did not know.

Capt. Blake, now stationed at Smyrna Army Air Field in Tennessee, was decorated for meritorious achievement in combat over New Guinea during those 10 months overseas service in the South Pacific.

The Fateful Telegram

There has been evidence of increasing hope for many families, some of them here in Washington C. H. and Fayette County, that sons, brothers and fathers, who have been reported missing in combat service in the war may soon be heard from as liberated prisoners.

While the war was still in its early stages and had not reached the present high pitch, many of us regarded those ominous telegrams from the War Department beginning with "We regret to inform you----" as something only from the films or novels. The stage would be set for the messenger's hesitant entrance bearing the fateful news and a family would be torn with grief over the loss of a loved one.

Unfortunately, no longer is this performance a celluloid epic, or an author's dramatization. Most of us have felt the loss of someone close to us. And when this information is first unfolded from a crumpled yellow paper, we re-enact, unconsciously those scenes we once had seen on the screen. We were reminded of such an incident with the fall of Manila and the release of hundreds of American and Philippine prisoners. We thought of a certain mother we knew in one Ohio city who, three years ago, clutched a crumpled telegram in her fist and sobbed tears of bitter grief. When the names of the Ohioans, who came out of these Jap confinements, were announced, his name was there. We would like to have been near that mother. Her grief still is stamped in our mind and her smiles of thankfulness would have erased all this. Many families hold renewed hope for those who have been reported missing in action, and the recent turn of events is a move in their favor. "Missing" youth are going to turn up more often as the battle of liberation continues. Families should gain new courage from this.

Typical Bureaucracy

Bureaucracy is a sprawling thing of involvements and inconsistencies. And though many thousand flaming words have been written about its real or fancied evils, it's a rather hard thing to pin down for an attack.

However, we came upon a postcard the other day which, in three lines, seemed to distill and illustrate the essential annoyance against which so much indignation has been directed.

A friend of ours had written to the Deputy Solid Fuels Administrator for War on a matter that he considered somewhat important. In reply he received this postcard. It bore a date, a few mysterious serial numbers, the deputy administrator's facsimile signature, and the message:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your (telegram letter memorandum)"—the first and last choices were crossed out—"dated. . . your reference. . . which will receive prompt attention."

The blanks were filled in, and "prompt" has been crossed out and "appropriate" substituted. That was all.

Now this, we submit, is bureaucracy in ROCKFORD, Ill.—(AP)—Henry G. Brown cleaned out his desk and, in a little more time than it takes to broadcast a police warning that pistol shots had terrorized a neighborhood, two detectives, two traffic officers and a motorcycle cop were at the scene. It developed that Brown had discovered and destroyed four dusty fire-crackers.

Today's Horoscope

You, perhaps unfortunately, do not mix well with people and so devote most of your time to your family. You have splendid inherent talents which will lie dormant until some emergency forces you to recognize and exploit them. You are a little too self-centered, and should cultivate generosity. Financial profit may come to you today, due to a kind service you rendered in the past. Or perhaps the assistance you now are giving will bring compensation later. Treat yourself to a new outfit.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Yes, this was accomplished in the design and operation of the LST's.
2. In the reign of Justinian I, 527 A. D. The paddlewheels were driven by three oxen on a treadmill.
3. Thirty-four, according to the records.

a nutshell. Rudeness masquerading as efficiency; arrogance triumphing over the long-forgotten fact that government bureau employees are public servants, too.

Any congressman would of course be committing political suicide if he even once replied to a constituent on a printed form. But congressmen get their jobs through the people's sufferance, and keep them by being not only as wise but also as considerate as they can.

The bureaucrat also pays the grocer with the taxpayers' money. But he cannot find time to give his own or his assistants' personal attention to the taxpayers' troubles.

We don't know what can be done to correct bureaucratic bad manners unless the public insistently protests by votes at election time. We do offer one piece of advice—don't for heaven's sake write your favorite bureaucrat about it.

Winter Heat

Possibly the coal problem about which there has been so much argument lately is simpler than it seems. Maybe it could be solved, in most cases, by the same simple procedure which many thousand intelligent families have already been using. That is, by the most thrifty and intelligent use of the coal available. Shouldn't there be more discussion of that?

Many families, when they have coal, seem to burn it up faster than is necessary. Maybe the stove or the grate is operated in a wasteful way. Often fuel is lost by keeping a fire burning more strongly than is needed. The trick of banking the fire, leaving a tiny glow which can easily be brought to a flame the next morning, is often neglected. Or there may be needless waste of heat because of drafts coming through leaky windows or doors not properly closed.

The essential thing to remember is that heat is a measurable and controllable thing and to treat it accordingly, as we control consumption of flour or sugar.

Prevention Of Coronary Disease

Certain types of people are especially likely to have disease of the coronary arteries, the arteries which supply the heart muscle with blood. These persons must be guarded by their physicians so that everything possible may be done to keep coronary thrombosis—the formation of a blood clot in the coronary artery—from developing.

What types of persons are especially likely to have coronary thrombosis? To begin with the patients who have already had one attack. The chances of a second attack are considerable in these persons; second, those who have the condition known as angina pectoris, a disorder in which there are severe attacks of pain under the breastbone, due possibly to a spasm of the coronary arteries; third, the middle-aged and elderly people who have definite evidence of heart damage, which is shown by the electrocardiogram, an electrical tracing of the heart beat. Others who may be especially susceptible are those with high blood pressure, diabetes, deficient thyroid secretion and polycythemia or an excessive number of red cells in the blood.

Coronary thrombosis practically never occurs in undamaged arteries. Hence, those patients who have damaged coronary arteries should be discovered, if possible, and every effort made to eliminate excessive strain of any type. According to Doctor Milton Plotz, of Brooklyn, patients who have damaged coronary arteries may have attacks of pain over the heart which may last for varying periods of time.

What steps are necessary to protect patients who are especially likely to have coronary disease? First of all, an effort must be made to decrease the work of the heart by rest in bed for a period of one to two weeks or longer, depending upon the response which occurs. A drug known as papaverine may be given by mouth or by injection, to increase the circulation of blood through the coronary arteries. Drugs which lessen the blood pressure should not be used over long periods of time. This includes such drugs as nitroglycerin.

The heart muscle may die—even though blocking of the coronary artery does not occur—because the blood pressure in the coronary arteries may be reduced to the point where not enough blood flows through them to keep the heart muscle alive. It is for this reason that these patients should be protected against any severe operation. The use of anesthetics should be avoided, and any severe hemorrhage should be carefully guarded against. All of these things will cause a drop in the blood pressure and thus may be dangerous.

Disease of the coronary arteries usually can be diagnosed without much difficulty. The electrocardiogram is helpful in making a diagnosis, but does not always show the extent to which the heart has been damaged. In fact, there are occasional instances reported in which patients have died of coronary thrombosis within a day or two after the electrocardiogram has been perfectly normal, but this seldom occurs.

When coronary artery disease is suspected, the patient must remain under the care of his physician so that steps can be taken to protect him. Tomorrow, Dr. Bundesen will discuss "Fatigue and Depression."

QUESTIONS ANSWERED
COATED TONGUE—I have a heavy coating on my tongue and must brush it several times a day to keep it clean. What causes this?—H. I.

ANSWER—Coated tongue sometimes comes from constipation while, in many cases, no cause for it can be discovered. If one is in good physical condition and feels perfectly well, no attention should be paid to the fact that the tongue is coated.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

Aggie's left eyebrow cocked and he touched his Vandyke. These were the words of a querulous old man—an angry and alarmed old man. They might be, also, the words of a shrewd man, who relied on attack for his defense. Aggie tried a counterattack. "Speaking of snooping, Mr. Waite, where were you the night Calder was killed?"

The other man started glacially. "You do not hesitate to assume any prerogatives, I see! I haven't the remotest intention of answering. But I do have every intention of finding out how you learned of my absence. This is my home. You've invaded my privacy sufficiently!"

"Were you—by chance—in the cellar of the club?" Aggie had counted upon the statement to have some effect. Waite's reaction, was, however, an enlargement of that expectancy. The old man began to tremble. His face contracted into an expression of fury, of hate, of miserliness and fear. His pince-nez flickeringly mirrored the electric lights. "Curse Sarah!" he finally croaked. "Curse the blabbing old fool! Get out of here!"

Aggie turned to Danielle. "Come on." But the girl stood still. "Haven't you forgotten to call the police?"

Aggie looked at her, smiling faintly. "So I have!"

"Get out!" Waite repeated. In a hobbling frenzy, he rushed across his living room and snatched a vase from the mantel. He raised it. "Get out of here, I say!"

Aggie nodded toward the door. "We'll phone from Sarah's."

The voice at State Police Headquarters was toneless. "Dr. Davis found dead. Medicine Lodge on the Upper Lake Road. We'll send somebody at once."

"The servants are waiting there for you," Aggie said. "I'll be at my aunt's house." He hung up.

The room was flooded with light. Danielle was busy tucking Sarah into the ingenook. Chilly apprehensively took their order for more coffee. "They're coming," Aggie said unnecessarily.

Sarah instructed old John in the method of setting a match to the fire laid on the grate, although John had ignited a thousand in the same place. They wanted a fire for psychic comfort—not warmth.

"Now, Aggie," she said, when she was satisfied, "tell me."

Aggie glanced at Danielle.

She dropped into a chair, stretched out her legs, and nodded. "Shoot, Aggie. I'm all right now."

For fifteen minutes, Aggie talked. At the end of that time, he had given his aunt a complete description of the scene in the Davis house. During the recital, Sarah kept touching her swollen neck with a tentative finger—and jerking it away. She seemed, nevertheless, to have taken a new lease on life; unburdened of her secret, she was very much her usual self. When her nephew finished, she said, "Hun! George wouldn't kill himself in a million years! Too conceited!"

"But he did—apparently."

"With Hank's knife? Non-sense!"

"You think Henry Bogarty is alive—and around here—and killed him?"

Sarah grunted again. "Did I say so? I just said—Danielle's father hadn't a suicidal streak in his bones!"

"Then," Aggie tugged his beard, "maybe you can explain how the thing was accomplished."

"I don't attempt to explain! That's your business. Or Wes Wickman's. You're a scientist. He's a cop. You're supposed to be able to think! I'm merely a woman—" who knows people. I say, somebody killed Danielle's father! What do you say?" She turned to the girl.

Danielle shook her head. "I don't know. He must have done it. There's no other way. There must be something—something else—besides the cache."

Sarah glanced from the girl to her nephew, with a strange, luminous expression. "You told Danielle?"

His eyes were abstracted. "On the way back here. The salient points. I was thinking—"

Sarah made a scoffing sound. "Thinking out loud, practically! I saw you look over your shoulder toward the hill. You were thinking about that gold!"

"I was deciding I'd go up and check on it. If you'll tell me how to get to it—"

Both women were startled by that suggestion. Danielle looked at him with incredulity. Sarah was frightened. She spoke: "That, too, is Wes's affair! It's dark—three o'clock—and you can't go poking around in cellars! Suppose—somebody else was there!"

"An additional reason for going! Besides, cellars are dark—even in daytime."

"I won't tell you how to get in!"

"Then I'll run up just to see if anybody is lurking around there. If Dr. Davis was murdered—somebody might be. In a few more minutes, this place is going to be waked up by sirens and headlights. Attention will be on Danielle's house."

He had risen. "I think this is an excellent time to be in that cellar. Besides—I used to play games in the wine cellar. It was fun."

Sarah glanced at the girl opposite her. Firelight emphasized the concentration with which Danielle was looking back at Aggie.

The girl's head finally shook and she said, "Don't go there, Aggie. It might be dangerous. And this isn't the kind of business for a—" —person like you to—get into."

"Danger?" he repeated. "You mean—I should stay out of it because it's dangerous?"

Danielle nodded. "That's exactly what I mean! After all, you're a professor—not a cop. You can't go barging into a cellar at night."

He seemed perplexed. "But—I'm keen! I'd enjoy beating Wes to it! I don't mind danger." He noticed the way in which his aunt was regarding the girl. "Right, Sarah. Send her out of the room—and give me the dope. And—Danielle. Remind me to tell you about the time I was lost on the ice floe for a week—and a night in Cambodia—and one thing or another. Danger! Good Lord!"

Sarah grinned. Danielle went reluctantly into the kitchen. Sarah pulled her nephew close. "You might shift from that pajama top," she said, "to a sweater. You look absurd." Aggie started, glanced at his clothes, and blushed. In a whisper, she told him.

Five minutes later, he left the house. The moon had vanished. Clouds covered most of the sky. In the east, a few stars still shone.

Through the trees, in the distance, lights twinkled at the Davis house, where the servants were queasily waiting for the police. Aggie cut up the hill toward the club on a footpath. The building would be locked. Jack Browne and the servants would be asleep on the upper floors. He did not wish to wake them.

He came to the edge of the trees, moved from one lilac to another, and finally onto the side porch. There was not a light in the clubhouse. He swung out a screen. The first window was locked; the third was not. Aggie raised it and went in. He smelled moth flakes when he passed the stuffed moose head. He used a flashlight once, for less than a second, to find a way through the tables and divans in the main lounge. In the same manner, he passed through the dining room to the pantry and from the pantry into the steamy, institutional smell of the club kitchen. He found the door to the main cellar. He carefully opened it, entered, closed it, and started down the steps.

When he was midway on them, he listened. An automatic pump was going somewhere below. It made a muffled, rhythmic noise, but, between its beats, there were minute silences. Aggie heard nothing in them. This cellar had windows—opaque squares that let in little light by day and none at night. He risked another flicker of light. Anyone who happened to be outside would have seen it—but he had to get a bearing through the place. He moved again in the dark—past the furnace and the bins of coal. Ashes gritted under his feet.

A door at the end of the furnace room opened into a corridor. He found its handle. Beyond that door were no more windows, so he turned on his light and locked the switch. There was dust enough and cobwebbing enough to suggest that the passage had not been used for years. But the concrete floor was blurred with the evidences of feet going to, and coming from, the wine cellar.

Nurse Eager To Return to Philippines

By BONNIE WILEY

SAN FRANCISCO — Ann Bernatius, Navy nurse who escaped by submarine from Corregidor a scant two days before "the Rock" fell, is going back.

"I hope it will be to the Philippines. That's what I'm counting on," said the attractive Exeter, Penn., girl, while awaiting transportation from San Francisco to the war zone.

Lt. (j.g.) Bernatius, to whom the days of the fall of the Philippines seem like a terrifying nightmare, wants to see the tables turned on the Japs.

Only Navy nurse on either Bataan or Corregidor, Lt. Bernatius, eleven Army nurses and a Navy wife, crept aboard an Australia-bound submarine in the black of night on May 3, 1942, while Japanese searchlights swept the Corregidor shore in a vain hunt for them.

Ann Bernatius reported for duty at the U. S. Naval hospital, Canacoa, Philippine Islands, in July, 1940. She recalls:

From dawn until midnight the understaffed hospital crews worked on an ever-increasing number of patients.

Two days before Bataan fell, another evacuation came, this time to Corregidor.

After almost a month of living and caring for the wounded in the rock-hewn tunnels of Corregidor, Lt. Bernatius was ordered one afternoon to be ready to leave that night.

Beautiful Party Is Entertained by Dr., Mrs. Persinger

A beautiful dinner party of perfect appointments was entertained Wednesday evening at the Washington Country Club by Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Persinger.

Greeting their guests at the Club at seven o'clock, a delicious three course dinner of seasonal viands was served at three large round tables. Presenting a picture of Valentine beauty, each table was centered with a heart shaped container filled with red carnations, red geraniums and white sweetpeas, and the twenty-two guests found their places marked with attractive Valentine place-cards. Pretty nosegays of red roses and white sweetpeas marked the places of the ladies as lovely favors of the party.

After dinner the guests were taken to the attractive home of the Persingers on Rawlings Street, where a delightful evening of cards was enjoyed thoroughly in the recreation room of the basement. Handsome prizes colorfully done in Valentine wrappings were awarded to Mrs. Ormond Dewey, Mr. Earl Parker, Mr. Ed Hunt and Mr. Roush Burton.

Miss Helen Persinger and Mr. Joe Lawra of Springfield were out-of-town guests for the delightful occasion.

Sr. Girl Reserve Club Program Held Wednesday

The Senior Club of Girl Reserves of Washington C. H. High School enjoyed a St. Valentine's Day program when they met in regular session at the high school, Wednesday, following dismissal of school for the day.

A musical program, capably planned and executed by Claire Frances Campbell, following the business meeting which was led by President Ruth Adams. Harriett Braun gave devotions, after which a discussion of plans for observing the program leader then presented the Triple Trio who sang two numbers, "This Is My Country" and "A Pretty Girl." Then Nancy Devans sang "If You Are But A Dream," and the double trio sang "Whispering" and "Slow and Easy."

Doris Brandenburg and June Cook sang the duet "Let the Rest of the World Go By." The "Quazy Quartette" sang "You Are My Sunshine." Those taking part were Virginia Brayton, Jean Nonnez, Helen McCoy and Rosemary Eckle.

Janet Murray sang "Sweet Dreams Sweetheart," and the piano duet "Whispering" was given by Janice Fogle and Claire Frances Campbell.

The members then adjourned to the Home Ec rooms of the high school where refreshments suggestive of St. Valentine's Day, were served by Georgeanne Griffith, Pat Gibson, Barbara Junkins and Janice Fogle.

Loyal Daughters Class

Mrs. Russell Knapp was hostess to members of the Loyal Daughters Class of the North Street Church of Christ when they met at her home, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ted Merritt, president of the class conducted the business meeting.

A discussion of activities at the church for Easter was made. Mrs. Merritt presented the class teacher, Mrs. Minnie Flee with carnations as a St. Valentine's Day gift for which she made nice response. Mrs. Floyd Miller, who sold the most Christmas cards was presented with a potted plant.

During the three contests that followed, prizes went to Mrs. Sherman Hidy, Mrs. Wilbur Kier and Mrs. Bernice Duckwall.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Knapp were Mrs. Ralph Hickman and Mrs. Orpha Willis.

Jean Mallow To Wed Lt. Krall In Early Spring

At a dinner party given for close friends at the Hotel Berry, Athens, on St. Valentine's Day, Miss Jean Ellen Mallow and Lt. Richard Langdon Krall, Army Air Corps officer, of Pasadena, California, announced their engagement.

Miss Mallow is the extremely talented and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Mallow, Sr., of 641 South Fayette Street. She was graduated from the Washington High School in 1941 and is now a junior at Ohio University, Athens. She is affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and is a member of Phi Chi Delta Presbyterian sorority.

Lt. Krall is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Krall of Longmeadow, Mass. He was graduated from Storm King Preparatory School, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, New York, in 1940, and was a junior at Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., prior to his enlistment in the Air Corps. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. Recently returning from completing his tour of missions with the 15th AAF in Italy, he is enroute to the Redistribution Center at Miami Beach, Fla.

The wedding, which will be of much interest to many friends in this community, will take place sometime in the late spring.

Met at Home of Mrs. Van Voorhis

The regular meeting of the Marguerite Class was held Tuesday evening at seven-thirty at the home of Mrs. Paul Van Voorhis.

Opening with devotionals led by Mrs. Walter Rettig, a routine business meeting in charge of the president, Mrs. Darrell Williams, followed. Mrs. Albert Bryant gave the treasurer's report followed by a report from the secretary, Mrs. Fulton Alkire. Mrs. Alkire also read appreciative letters from men in the service, thanking the class for their boxes sent at Christmas time.

Following the business session, an evening of delightful sociability and the serving of delicious refreshments by the hostesses was thoroughly enjoyed. A pretty Valentine motif was cleverly carried out in the refreshments.

Assisting Mrs. Van Voorhis in the hospitalities were Mrs. Charles Reinke, Mrs. Walter Rettig and Mrs. Harold Slagle.

Dinners Honors Army Nurse

Mrs. John Seibel entertained a coterie of friends with a steak dinner at the Fireside Inn near Mt. Sterling, Wednesday evening, the occasion honoring Miss Betty Stewart of New Holland who reports for duty with the Army Nurse Corps March 1.

Those seated at the table for the serving of a sumptuous meal were Mrs. Wendell Morrison, Clarksburg; Miss Eileen Osterle, Columbus; Mrs. R. W. Kirkpatrick, Miss Wanda Arnold, the honor guest and hostess.

Church Women Plan Project of Clothing For European Refugees

In response to an urgent appeal for used clothing for European refugees, a meeting will be held in the First Baptist Church Monday afternoon, February nineteenth, at two o'clock to plan this project.

At this time, Miss M. Elsie McCoy, president of the Clinton Council of Church Women will be present to discuss plans for collecting the clothing. Everyone in Fayette County interested in this undertaking is urged to attend.

Pearl Harbor Base Chapel Scene of Navy Wedding

White dress uniforms were worn by all members of the bridal party and guests at the naval military wedding uniting in marriage Ensign Virginia Ruth Harvey (NC) USNR, and Lt. (j.g.) Kenneth Grant Holcombe, USNR. The ceremony was performed on January 20, at three-thirty at the Submarine Base Chapel, Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, by Chaplain Doggett, USNR.

The new Mrs. Holcombe is the daughter of Mrs. C. W. Andrews, 1394 Neil Avenue, Columbus, and the late Ernest Harvey. Lt. (j.g.) Holcombe is a son of Dr. and Mrs. J. V. Holcombe of Oakland, Calif.

The newly-weds visited at Waikiki Beach until Lt. Holcombe returned to active duty, and Mrs. Holcombe returned to the United States. She is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Holcombe in Oakland, Calif.

Mrs. Holcombe was associated with the Children's Hospital, Columbus, for 10 months prior to enlistment in the Navy Nurse Corps in November, 1942. She served a year at the U. S. Naval Hospital, San Diego, Calif., and has been stationed in Australia for the past 15 months.

She is the granddaughter of Mrs. A. R. Stokesbury and the late Mr. Stokesbury of this city.

Twenty-seven Attend Meeting at Church

Twenty-seven members and guests of the Queen Esther and Loyal Men's Classes of the North Street Church of Christ met at the home of Mrs. Clara Lauderman on Tuesday evening for the February business meeting.

Mrs. Ursa Thornhill conducted the lengthy session and Mrs. Lauderman read impressive devotionals with Mrs. Lettie Dews, a guest of the class, leading in prayer.

Plans were made for making more comforts to be sold to build up the class treasury.

Delicious chicken pie and other tempting refreshments were served at a late hour with everyone enjoying a pleasurable social hour following the meeting.

Hostesses for the affair with Mrs. Lauderman were Miss Sarah Allerdise, Mrs. Bessie Reeves and Mrs. Alfred Trout.

Sixteen Tots Enjoy Birthday Of 3-year-old

A delightful birthday party assembling sixteen tiny tots was entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. William McCoy at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brandenburg, in honor of her three year old son, Mickey Ray.

The cunning youngsters romped merrily through the afternoon, especially enjoying the appealing refreshments of ice cream and cake. Seated at the dining room table which was centered with a huge birthday cake, frosted in white and red, each little guest found a pretty Valentine and individual heart-shaped basket filled with candy at each place.

The Valentine covered table and the happy faces of the children were like the picture of a real Valentine. Mickey Ray delightedly opened his many gifts amid the glee and enthusiasm of all present. One of the highlights of the afternoon was the surprise telephone call from his father, Corporal McCoy, from Camp Gruber, Oklahoma, to wish his young son greetings of the day.

The two great-grandmothers of the honor guest were present for the happy occasion, Mrs. Gertrude Joseph, coming from Cuba and Mrs. Frank Brandenburg from Dayton.

Mrs. McCoy was assisted in the entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Ray Brandenburg, and sister, Mrs. Dale Ward.

February Birthdays Celebrated at Dinner

Several February birthdays were observed when Mrs. Geneva Minshall of Lakeview Avenue entertained with open house, at which time the honored guests were Mr. Charles Minshall, Mrs. Louise Stewart, Mr. Howard East, Mrs. Ruby Leeth, Miss Donna Jean Yoho and Mr. Dick Hodson.

Those present in addition to the guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leeth and children, Patty, Carolyn Jean and Linda Kay, Mr. Loren Yoho and Donna and Junior, Mrs. James Pierce, Mr. Gene Minshall, Miss Jeanette Hodson, Mr. Gilbert Leeth and son, Bobby, Miss Kay Minshall, all of this city; Mrs. Ivan Kelly of Bloomingburg; Mrs. Howard East of the Leesburg road; Mrs. Charles Minshall, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Evans, all of Sabina; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whiteside and children, Mr. and Mrs. John Reed of London.

Following the serving of a bountiful noon meal, the remainder of the day was devoted to informal visiting.

Pvt. Wayne Rudduck Guest of Honor at Party in New Holland

Pvt. Wayne Rudduck of Fort Riley, Kansas, was the guest of honor when Mr. and Mrs. Ancil Kirkpatrick, Jr., entertained with an informal evening party in his honor at their attractively-appointed residence in New Holland. Mrs. Kirkpatrick is Pvt. Rudduck's sister.

Those enjoying an evening of cards, informal visiting with the honoree and dancing to the music of records were Misses Dixie Lou Graves, Laverne Satchell, Claire Frances Campbell, Betty DeHeart, Carol Armstrong, June Cook, Neta Williams, Joe Garlinger, Carroll Steele, Mac Dews, Chester Brown, David Thompson, Jimmy Jenkins and Bobby Hossler.

St. Valentine's Party Held at Church of Christ

One of the most pleasurable of parties was enjoyed on Tuesday evening when 16 members and guests of the Senior Christian Endeavor of the North Street Church of Christ assembled in the church for a Valentine social.

The basement of the church was very pretty in colorful decorations consisting of red and white streamers overhead and large valentines placed in appropriate places. A special attraction was two large wooden candle holders made in the shape of a heart containing white candles and placed in windows.

As guests arrived they were assigned to different tables where they proceeded to make original valentines, which were later distributed to the guests as their favor for the evening. An array of colorful and clever designs were displayed.

Table tennis, shuffleboard, puzzles and other games added to the enjoyment and fun of the evening.

Appropriate refreshments were served at the close at prettily decorated tables, planned by the decorating committee. Ruffled streamers of red crepe paper encircled the tables, which were covered in white and centered with large red valentines. Red candles in white crepe paper holders stood at either end and red cellophane valentines were sprinkled on top.

A friendship including song and prayer closed the party with the announcement of the regular Sunday evening prayer service and the business meeting of the group which will be held at the home of Norman Trout on Tuesday, February 27.

Committees for the affair were: games, Misses Jean Spencer, Alice Davis; refreshments, Rev. and Mrs. Carver and decorations, Misses Jane Cummings and Patty-rae Cabbage.

Denise Yeoman Feted at Party

Mrs. Edwin Yeoman entertained with a gala St. Valentine's Day birthday party for her two-year-old daughter, Denise Elaine, at the home of Mrs. Yeoman's sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Brown. Denise is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Edwin Yeoman, Capt. Yeoman having been overseas for one year.

The kiddies assembled at three-thirty for a jolly round of games and contests, the guests numbering fourteen. A Valentine motif was carried out in the appointments and decorations of the dining-room where the birthday cake and other party delicacies were served much to the guests' enjoyment.

Those assisting Mrs. Yeoman were Mrs. Charles Reinke, Mrs. Eugene Smith, Mrs. Gene Reininger and Mrs. Brown.

Attends Wedding

Mrs. Arnold Slack was in Columbus Tuesday to attend the wedding of Miss Virginia Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Henry of 2102 Elgin Road, Upper Arlington, and M-Sgt. George Ward. The ceremony was performed at the Parish House in Upper Arlington at four-thirty, and a nuptial dinner which Mrs. Slack also attended, was given at the Hotel Seneca at seven o'clock. M-Sgt. Ward has just returned from thirty-two months overseas duty in India. Miss Henry and Mrs. Slack were former classmates at Ohio University, Athens.

Program At BPWC Dinner

The Ohioans, a swing band with David Mossbarger as manager will provide a musical program when the February dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club is held Thursday evening, in the mezzanine dining room of Sheridan's Restaurant, it was reported today.

Dinner will be served at six-thirty o'clock.

Carolyn Lee Williams Celebrates 4th Birthday

Mrs. Caryl Williams entertained with a birthday party in honor of her cunning little four year old daughter, Carolyn Lee.

A pink and green color scheme enhanced the beauty of the dining room table with favors of small pink nut cups and pink paper hats delighting the youngsters as place favors. A large birthday cake, frosted in pink and white, centered the table, and was cut as the tempting ice cream was served.

Games and contests made the afternoon hours merry ones for the cunning tots, with pretty little brown haired and blue eyed Carolyn, the center of the group.

Youngsters enjoying the party were Betty Ellen and Teddy Clark, Roger Swartz, Janice Kelly, Martha Lee Evans and Betty King of Jeffersonville. Mrs. Williams was ably assisted in the hospitalities by Mrs. Tom Arnold, Mrs. Raymond Hart and Mrs. William Clark.

CAPTAIN PRAISES GI JOES IN AFRICA

Capt. Pfersick Says They're Doing Wonderful Job

Capt. Charles Pfersick, 119 East Market Street, today is back in the United States after 12 and a half months in North Africa.

It will be duty in the States for Capt. Pfersick after his 21 day leave is over. Mrs. Pfersick and their son, Peter, will go with him to his new station, wherever it is.

While Capt. Pfersick saw little of the war as it is fought on battlefields, he had an opportunity to observe the GI Joes in action and he said: "They're a grand bunch of boys and are working together like one big happy family. It's no picnic for them and they're doing an awful lot for the people back home."

Blood plasma is just as vital behind the lines as it is at the front. Capt. Pfersick implied as he told how the plasma was used in treating soldiers who had been badly burned in planes.

For instance, the quantity of plasma used now in North Africa is not so great as in battle lines, however, Capt. Pfersick explained.

"You're not kiddin'!" Capt. Pfersick said when he was asked how he liked being back. "One of the first things I did was to get a good milk shake. I he chuckled as he told of the lack of milk fresh from a cow in North Africa."

Bay View Meets

Miss Gertrude Christy welcomed the members of the Bay View Club to her home Thursday evening for their regular meeting.

Due to the absence of their president, Mrs. Clem Pollard, the meeting was presided over by Miss Alma Sheridan. Roll call response was Natural Wonders of the U. S. Mrs. Robert Crane gave the paper for the evening using as her topic, "The Great Smoky Mountains." Having visited there recently, she presented a vivid picture of the wonderful scenery which made her talk very informative. Mrs. Ferrol Rhonemus gave the Critic's Report.

A discussion over current events closed the interesting program.

Mr. and Mrs. Moon, Hosts
Mr. and Mrs. Olin Moon extended cordial hospitality to the members of their 500 Club Saturday night and entertained with a delicious covered dish supper at 7 P.M.

Invited guests present were Mr. and Mrs. John Moon, of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cline and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilson, with club members, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Langdon of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Job Burris, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pavey, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Snider, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Rosson, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wilson.

The supper was served cafeteria style and guests were seated at small tables for the delightful meal.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to playing gaily contested games of 500, with high score prizes going to Mrs. Snider and Frank Pavey and consolation prizes were won by Mrs. John Moon and George L. Wilson.

Family Dinner Party
Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bernard entertained with a lovely dinner Sunday honoring their daughter, First Lieut. Barbara Bernard, who is home for a furlough from overseas.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bernard and daughters, Alma Faye and Juanita, Miss Laura Bernard, Mrs. Paul Bernard and Miss Betty Bernard.

Property Sells
Mrs. James F. Gaskins sold her property on Stockton Avenue, last week, to Maude Wilson, who will take possession March 1st. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett now reside in the house.

Slowly Recovering
Mr. T. J. Rankin, who has been quite ill the past week, with a severe case of quinsy, is reported slowly improving.

Move Near Washington C. H.
Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ellis and family, who have lived on the Lape land south of town the past six years, moved last week to a farm near Washington C. H.

Ernest Geary Feted
Close neighbors and friends of Ernest Geary assembled at their home with a covered dish dinner Monday evening in remembrance of his birthday anniversary.

Delicious food and a jolly good time was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Geary and daughters, Janet and Elaine, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fisher, Louise Hoppes, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Allen and Jane Hoppes.

Attend Capping Exercises

Heard about the Pan-a-min Plan?

The Pan-a-min Plan calls for good hens, good feed and care, and Pan-a-min. Its goal is more efficient egg production.

Pan-a-min is the key in this plan because it supplies tonics that help the bird make better use of feed and supplies minerals essential in egg production. Pan-a-min Plan birds on the Research Farm lay as many as 23 more eggs per bird per year.

We believe the Pan-a-min Plan can help you step up the egg efficiency of your hens. We can supply the Pan-a-min.

GOOD HOPE MAN WITH FAMOUS INFANTRY UNIT

Pvt. Norman W. Day Assisted In Capture of Vital Arnot River Post

Private Norman W. Day, rifleman, of Good Hope, is a member of the 3rd battalion, 351st infantry regiment, which has been awarded a War Department Distinguished Unit citation for a four-day battle which resulted in the capture of Laiatico during the Fifth Army drive to the Arno River last July.

Laiatico, a mountain town and key German stronghold south of the Arno River, fell to the 3rd battalion after the 88th "Blue Devil" Division unit had withstood three days of savage counterattacks before launching its own successful offensive on July 13.

Announced by Brigadier General Paul W. Kendall, 88th Division commander, the official citation stated that "during the attack on strongly fortified German positions in the vicinity of Laiatico, the 3rd battalion occupied an advanced position devoid of cover with both flanks exposed and for three days frustrated all enemy efforts to defend the town and surrounding strategic positions. On the fourth day, the 3rd battalion launched a night attack and penetrated the German stronghold from the flanks and rear.

"Aggressively exploiting its breakthrough, the battalion seized a German regimental command post, after a savage hand-to-hand struggle in the darkness, and cut the main escape route from the Laiatico hill mass. As a result of the 3rd battalion's prodigious efforts, 425 prisoners were taken, 250 Germans killed or wounded, and a large quantity of enemy weapons were captured and promptly employed with telling effect against the battered German forces.

"The timely capture of this key enemy defensive position compelled the Germans to abandon a carefully prepared, strongly defended line and opened the route of advance to the Arno River. The fearlessness, heroic determination and aggressive fighting spirit of the officers and men of the 3rd battalion, 351st infantry regiment, resulted in a performance which brings honor to the armed forces of the United States."

Commander of the battalion during the Laiatico struggle was Major Harold B. Ayers of New Orleans, Louisiana, who took over from Lieutenant Colonel Charles P. Furr of Rock Hill, South Carolina, wounded just prior to the start of the battle.

"The night attack which Major Ayers led was one of the best ever made in this regiment," said Colonel Arthur S. Champeny of Wellington, Kansas, regimental commander.

Members of the battalion are entitled to wear a blue citation ribbon, denoting the award. The 3rd battalion is the first unit of the 88th "Blue Devil" Division to win such an honor.

JUNIOR FAIR DIRECTOR GETS AGRICULTURE POST

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Appointment of Byron P. Sandles of Columbus, Ohio, junior fair manager since 1930, as assistant director of agriculture was announced today. He is 49.

Sandles was given a leave of absence from his fair manager's post, which carries a Civil Service rating, to take the unclassified position.

Sandles succeeds Mrs. Lottie Randolph of New Lexington. As distilled, brandy is colorless. Storage in wood imparts a pale brown color and addition of caramel makes all brandy the same color.

The above scene is taken from "Gypsy Wildcat," starring Marie Montez, Jon Hall and Peter Coe. This picture filmed in glorious technicolor opens at the State Theater Sunday for three big days.

NEW TRAVEL BAN IS NOT SLOWING PLANS FOR FAIR

Board Officers Optimistic in Viewing Future Despite Wartime Restrictions

Members of the Fayette County Fair Board today were wondering just how much new restriction imposed on transportation by the government would affect the annual agricultural exposition here next July, but they gave no intimation that they had any intention of abandoning their plans which already are far in advance.

Of immediate concern to the board was the spreading of the government's convention ban to cover livestock shows, including everything from dogs to cattle. Word reaching here from the nation's capital was to the effect that the Office of Defense Transportation had made the decision only recently and that a few big events, such as the Westminster Dog Show, could not be covered by it.

The ban, reports said, does not apply if the events are purely local and do not involve inter-city transportation or housing accommodations.

Ray Brandenburg, president of the board, expressed the belief that the new restrictions would not interfere to any great extent with the Fair here. He did evidence some concern, however, over its possible effect on the livestock exhibits, but showed no disposition to concede yet any curtailment in this department was a certainty. He pointed out that while the livestock exhibits here are unusually large, most of the entries since the war started have come from farmers in this immediate community.

The only serious threat seen in the expansion of the ban is in connection with the sheep show. Plans had been made for one of the biggest in the Fair's history. They included the National Show of the Dorset Sheep Breeders Association and a possibility for a return of the State Show of the Shropshire Breeders' Association. There was a chance, it was feared, that the new restrictions might put a serious crimp in the Dorset show, because many entries were expected from a considerable distance. It was made plain, however, that even if it becomes necessary to cut down one or both of these, a good sheep show still could be reasonably expected.

"We are going right ahead with our Fair plans," Frank E. Ellis, secretary of the board said and explained that the board did not feel it should let up on its efforts until and unless there is a definite ban on Fairs. He expressed a firm conviction that there would be a Fair here "even if it can't be any bigger than a pumpkin show" so long as it does not violate any specific wartime government directives.

Ellis emphasized that the board was not "bucking" the government in its actions and declared unqualifiedly that "we want to cooperate in every way with the country's war effort" but, he added, that since it takes so long to put a Fair together the board could not wait until some of the unanswered questions are answered.

Both the president and secretary took an optimistic view of the confused situation that now confronts the board, and expressed the belief and hope that conditions would justify easing or lifting the restrictions, including those on horse racing which may or may not affect harness racing at Fairs.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
Wray Bevans, 37, attorney, Waverly and Mary Mavis Cole, 25, teacher, city.

FIRST TO FILE
Will E. Craig, this city, was the first to file his personal property returns at the office of County Auditor, Thursday, first day for filing such returns. Personal property lists have until March 30 to file their returns, and additional clerks will be added to the office staff by Auditor Acton if found necessary to help assist tax listers.

GIRL IN DOG ACT HAS WCH INTEREST

That's Right, It Is a Heart Interest

Petite, pretty Phyllis Thompson, whom you saw assisting Bert Rose with his canine stars of screen and stage, Boots and Saddies, shows at the Fayette Theatre Wednesday night, had more than a passing connection with Washington C. H.

Number one interest is Phyllis' romance. She declined to say just who it would be but admitted she planned to marry a Washington C. H. boy next summer. Then, too, the four foot, nine and a half inch tall girl worked for a time at the API plant here. And she has visited relatives in Milledgeville.

Twenty years old now, Phyllis' pretty face and soft brown hair that truly is a crowning glory were an asset to the act. Rose said she stepped onto the stage in her first show after only a little more than three hours rehearsal. Her home is in Springfield now. She used to live in Peebles.

TO BEGIN LENTEN SERIES ON SUNDAY

Rev. George B. Parkin Has Announced Sermons

Rev. George B. Parkin will start a series of Lenten sermons Sunday, on the general theme of "How to Live Our Best in These Times."

He will speak Sunday at 10:30 A. M. on "How God Restores the Soul."

Sunday morning, February 25, his subject will be "Ten Ways to Say Your Prayers," and on the following Sunday morning his topic will be "Is Suffering the Will of God?" Sunday the evening service will be resumed. The subject will be "The Great Events in The Bible."

Beginning next Wednesday evening at 7:30, the pastor will start a series of addresses on "The Life of Christ." The Mizpah class will have charge of the opening service, and be responsible for the attendance. All are welcome to these services.

FLUORESCENT LIGHTS IN RECORDER'S OFFICE

Workmen at the present time are equipping the office of County Recorder Frank E. Whiteside, with fluorescent lights, taking the place of the lights with large globes similar to those in other offices with exception of the County Auditor's office, where the fluorescent lights were first installed.

The new lights have been placed in the rear room of the Recorder's office, and are now being installed in the main room.

UNION TOWNSHIP FIRE PROTECTION NOT YET SOLVED

Hog Raisers and Garbage Dumpers in City To Be Prosecuted

While City Manager Walter L. Stambaugh has not yet completed his investigation with a view to working out some method for furnishing fire protection for Union Township, from the fire department in this city, present indications are that the proposal may fall through.

Stambaugh reported to City Council, Wednesday night, that he had visited Columbus and Circleville and made inquiry as to the methods of furnishing township fire protection in use in those cities, and had made investigations in other ways, with the result that so far no proper arrangement seems possible.

Stambaugh said that he would continue his investigation and endeavor to report at the next meeting of council.

His investigation was made when the Union Township Trustees several weeks ago asked for some arrangement whereby fire protection could be furnished in Union Township.

Stambaugh also stated that the country truck upon which a large tank had been mounted as an auxiliary piece of equipment, supplied by the government, was inadequate and a larger truck was necessary.

In all probability the truck may be turned back to the county and another truck obtained by the city to be used as a mount for the equipment.

Judge R. H. Sites reported a total collection of $825.48 in fines, fees and forfeitures during the month of January, and of this amount all but $10 was turned into the County Treasury, the remainder going into the State Treasury in state cases. Forty-two cases were disposed of in his court during January.

Request was made by Carroll Halliday to have certain alleyways, part of a plat of the former Daugherty property and at Clinton and Leesburg Avenues, eliminated, and at the next meeting such an ordinance is to be presented so the tract of land may be unbroken by alleyways.

County Dog Warden Otis Bonecutter was present, and discussed with council ways for handling the dog situation in the city to protect Victory gardens and eliminate much of the dog nuisance generally. Definite action will be taken later.

It was indicated by Stambaugh that definite steps will be taken to eliminate the raising of hogs within the city limits, as an ordinance prohibits keeping hogs.

Stambaugh also stated that plans are being made to stop push cart owners from dumping rubbish and garbage at various places in the city, and that prosecutions will be made if necessary to halt it.

Washington, D. C., was first laid out from the plans of Maj. L'Enfant, an accomplished Frenchman and friend of Gen. Washington.

PLANS ARE SET FOR CORN SHOW BANQUET FRIDAY

248 Reservations Received by American Legion Auxiliary

Everything is ready down to each pickle and pat of butter for the annual Farm Show Banquet Friday night.

The last detail was mapped out at the American Legion Auxiliary meeting Wednesday night. The ladies sandwiched their business meeting in between serving and washing the dishes for the Foremen's Club dinner.

Altogether, 248 reservations have been made for the banquet which is to be served by the Auxiliary.

The meeting was not devoted entirely to planning for the Corn Show banquet, however. Friday afternoon also is to be busy for the Auxiliary because two flags are scheduled for presentation at Eastside School at 2:30 P.M.

Mrs. Chester Clay's first grade room and Miss Elizabeth Adams' second and third grade room will receive the flags. While Mrs. Allen White will make the actual presentation, as many Auxiliary members as possible are asked to come to the Legion Hall between 2 and 2:30 P.M. Friday to go to the school in a group.

Preparations already are underway for the May Poppy Day sale with the ordering of 5,000 poppies. It was explained that it was requested that orders be placed early this year.

A $100 contribution to the Legion post to help pay for the new stove in the kitchen also was voted. The cancelling of the March 3 mid-year conference was announced.
